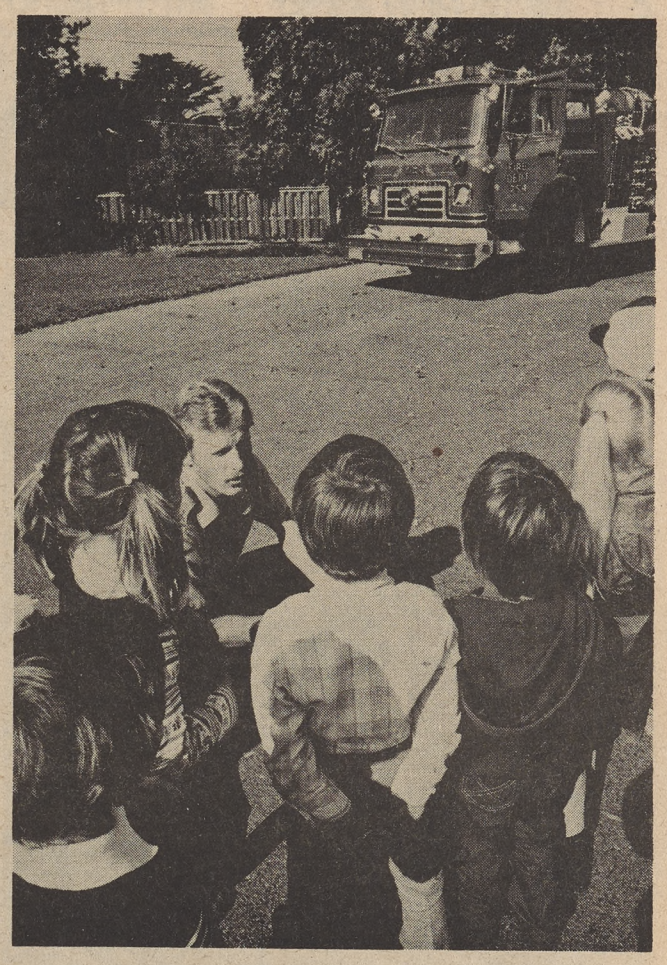
Junior firefighters



JUNIOR firefighters got a taste of the bigger task earlier this week when the Mid-Valley Fire Department played host to youngsters from Carmelo and All Saints' schools. Staged to coincide with National Fire Prevention Week, the firehouse sessions involved a talk about fire hazards and some hands-on demonstrations. For instance, Ivon Valdez, 5, a Carmelo School kindergartner, got to point a charged line with an assist from Fire Captain Dan Guice. Guice also discussed fire prevention with Ivon's classmates. All of the grades from the two elementary schools had completed the instruction by Wednesday. (Michael Stang photos)

Carmel aids Tor House, Tantamount Theater

The Carmel City Council twice voted Monday evening to serve the city's cultural "public purposes."

The council voted unanimously to provide $25,000 toward the purchase of Tor House, by the Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation.

The council also voted 5-0 to provide a room in Sunset Center to Francois Martin to screen films slated for showing at the Tantamount Theater. The Carmel Valley theater was destroyed by fire last Thursday.

The legality of both actions hinges on the "public purposes" served by each. Both fall within proper guidelines, according to City Attorney George Brehmer.

"We still have not worked out every possible angle" on the public purpose served by the Tor House grant, Brehmer said Monday evening. Tor House is the stone home on Carmel Point built by Carmel poet Robinson Jeffers. Brehmer will report back to the council in November with suggestions for uses of the house.

Fred Farr, president of the Tor House Foundation, suggested that the house be used as a literary center. It could house visiting writers, he said. Portions of the house would be reserved for Jeffers' son and daughter-in-law, who still live there. The remainder would be open to the public.

Brehmer will also report back with recommendations for the source of the city funds. The foundation must raise $100,000 by Dec. 31 to receive a matching grant from the National Trust for Historic Preservation. The foundation's long-term goal is to raise $400,000 within three years to purchase the house.

"The fact that the house is outside the city limits is not relevant. It is close enough to the city for Carmel residents to enjoy," Brehmer said.

At the request of the Carmel Community and Cultural Commission, the council agreed to offer the free use of Sunset Center's room 20 to Martin for the Tantamount Theater.

The request was made by Richard Tyler, director of Sunset Center. Tyler said it was originally suggested by Commissioners Robert Campbell and Bernard Van Horne.

The room would be available for weekend screenings of films scheduled for the Tantamount. Room 20 seats about 200 people.

"His operation is of cultural significance. To have his programs offered here would be a benefit to the public," Brehmer said.

Martin is trying to rebuild the theater. According to Marque Bradford, assistant manager of the Tantamount, a special account has been established at the Bank of America in Carmel Valley Village for contributions.

Money can be sent to the Tantamount Rebuilding Fund, care of Bank of America, P.O. Box 146, Carmel Valley, 93924.

Committee to review master plan

AFTER almost two years of work, a Carmel Valley citizens' committee will review the draft Carmel Valley Master Plan two weeks from tonight.

Consultant Larry Seeman, hired by the committee this summer to prepare the draft, said he will present the document on Oct. 26 at 8:30 p.m. The committee meets at Carmel Valley Manor.

The committee last Thursday approved the format Seeman will use in drafting the plan. But his outline does not address two specific and crucial issues: how to weight the point system for new development and how many building permits will be allowed in the Valley each year. The committee wants to use merit points to exclude undesired projects and encourage others.

Seeman said the specifics will be in the draft plan.

The master plan committee agreed over the summer that the new plan should limit new developments to a specific number each year. Projects will be given points based on how well they conform to master plan guidelines. Those with the most points would qualify for permits.

Guidelines involve topics such as protection of viewshed and open space, supplying water, roads and sewage disposal systems,

It's no secret--the sandcastle contest is Sunday!

THE NEWS that Carmel keeps secret until 72 hours before it happens can now be told:

The Great Sand Castle Contest is on for Sunday!

"We are sorry about the short notice, but we don't want the sand castle contest to outgrow itself," said Donald R. Brown, the architect who serves as grand marshal.

Last year, an estimated 5,000 people came to Carmel Beach to watch 244 entries take shape.

For sand castle builders, the single most important bit of information is the theme. Sunday it will be Egyptian architecture from 4400 B.C. to 332 B.C., or Dynasties I to XXX.

Also important are the tides. High tide is at 10:23 a.m. Low tide is at 4:52 p.m. Judging, however, will start at 2 p.m.

"This provides almost four hours of receding tide for sand castle builders to do their thing," Brown said. He represents the Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, co-sponsor of the contest along with the city of Carmel.

Brown chooses the themes. He picked the Egyptian one the other night after reading A History of Architecture on a Comparative Method by Sir Banistor Fletcher.

"THE FIRST sand castle project that comes to mind is the pyramids and sphinx at Giza, but there are many other works from which to draw," said Brown.

"With a little planning and preparation, sand models of the Tomb of Beni Hasan, the Temple of Ammon at Karnak or the Temple of Isis at Philae could be constructed. Sculptural examples such as the facade of the Great Temple Abu Simbel or the entrance to the Tomb of Tut-Aukh-Amen would make excellent entries," he said.

"It is, however, not required that a project conform to the theme in order to win an award because the judges probably can't tell an Egyptian temple from a Babylonian ziggurat," quipped Brown.

Judges for the 17th annual contest are:

Architects Jim Hommes, Bryce Graybill, Joyce Stevens, Terry Gotcher and Ray Lloyd; City Clerk Patricia O'Hearn; City Attorney George Brehmer; City Councilman Helen Arnold; Donald Davidson and Sandy Swain, members of the Carmel Planning Commission. The grand prize winner will be selected by Richard Tyler, director of Sunset Community and Cultural Center.

Judging will be conducted according to categories that separate experts from novices.

•

"THE IDEA behind the Great Sand Castle Contest of Carmel is to provide a pleasant day on the beach for families and friends," Brown said.

He asked beachgoers to observe these rules:

- Follow the parking and traffic laws and respect the property rights of those who live here.
- Dogs can destroy a sand castle and they should be leashed on the beach.
- Remove all "unnatural items" when you leave the beach.
- Sand can cave in so do not dig holes too deep.
- The use of mechanical earth-moving equipment is not encouraged.

Registration in the judging is done on the beach while the sand castle projects are in progress. An information table will be set up at the base of 13th Street.

Blueberries and bridge at St. Dunstan's party

Sixteen pounds of Oregon blueberries, hand picked by the hostess and made into pies, were the special treat for the 44 guests attending the St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church benefit bridge and canasta party at the Flight Road home of Kathryn Walker. Accompanied by Frances Anthony, Kathryn drove to Hiuchi, Ore., where they were the guests of former Valley residents Jean and Rudy Malek.

The blueberry pies were the piece de resistance of the "September, the Month of Sapphires" theme used by Kathryn and her co-hostesses Ruth Francis and Frances Anthony. Tables were covered with blue cloths with white place mats or white cloths with blue place mats and centered with small plants in bright blue pots. Andrews to speak at Thurs. meeting of Garden Club

Gordon Andrews, president of the Friends of Reforestation, will appear as guest speaker at the first fall meeting of the Carmel Valley Garden Association. The public is invited to hear Andrews, a local landscape architect.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Tularcitos multipurpose room.

Club president Reaford Shea will announce the field trip schedule and plans for the 1978-79 club yearbook.

Admission is free and refreshments will be served.

Carmel band plans rummage sale

Carmel High School band members hope to overcome budget cuts with a fund-raising rummage sale scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 28 in the high school cafeteria. The sale is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Anyone wishing to donate articles are asked to take them to the high school or to phone 659-4351 or 659-2468 for pickup.

Tularcitos band sells candles

The Tularcitos Elementary School Band and Chorus are selling candles in Carmel Valley this week to raise money for equipment and a field trip next spring.

Band and chorus members are taking orders for decorator candles in the community. Candles will be delivered at a later date.

Money from the project will go toward music equipment. It will also underwrite the bus fare to send the two groups to San Francisco next spring when they sing the National Anthem at a San Francisco Giants baseball game.

The student taking the most orders will also qualify for a special prize.

SUSIE BENNETT and golden retriever "Sunny" (front) go through their paces with Tericia Ijams and German shepherd 'K.C." during the Roronda-Buckeye 4-H Club fair at Tularcitos School on Saturday. The girls are raising the two animals as Guide Dogs.

New Augustitus baby welcomed home

The biggest news items on the Carmelo playground are daily progress reports to the students from 8-year-old Ben Bremer Augustitus about his new baby brother. Sue and Charles Augustitus of Schulte Road welcomed 8-pound Jason Thomas on Sept. 20 at Community Hospital. He is the namesake of uncle Tom, a Valley postman, and the grandson of Robles del Rio residents Mildred and Albert Augustitus.

Maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rausch of Waunakee, Wis., have been Valley visitors sharing the excitement of a new grandchild.

Parties before Jason's arrival included a shower at the home of Pam Bowen, co-hosted by Carol Collins, Katie Briggs, and Karen Bentley. The decor was yellow and green and a lamb in a basket presided over the gifts for the guest of honor.

Valley Chapel Guild holds coffee

A coffee to discuss plans for the annual Holiday Bazaar sponsored by the Guild members of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel was held last week at the Buena Vista del Rio home of Marjorie McKiernon, who will co-chair the benefit with Byra Wells.

The event will take place on Nov. 4 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall and feature decorations and foods for Thanksgiving as well as Christmas.

Committee chairmen brought samples of items which have been handcrafted over the year in various workshops. Among those attending were Dorothy Harris, Ann Werdelman, Vera Heckenlaible, Dorthea Edwards, Nellie Mirani, Venita Neilsen, Florence Johnson and Karen Woodward. Karen is the new ways and means chairman of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Nursery School and is coordinating her mothers to assist with all booths as well as take charge of the bakery department and children's art booth for the bazaar.

By KEN PETERSON

THE QUALITY of education at Carmel High School may be superior to that at other schools, but the campus structures are not.

Space in the 35-year-old campus is tighter than a drumhead. Students in drama often have to move from their classroom because it is needed by other classes. The spacious drama room often is used to show films, particularly when two or more classes are combined for one screening.

The school leadership class, consisting of elected student officials and class officers, meets daily in the metal shop because there are no other free rooms that period. There are even classes scheduled in the library.

When there is classroom space, it may not be the best. The home economics room is "a joke" according to Principal Dan Stevenson. Its only appliance is a single stove. The library is a converted lecture hall with poor acoustics and too little room for books.

The photography and graphics classes meet in the same room, although the activities are not compatible. The district was able to equip a new science room partly because some tables ordered for Tularcitos School were too tall for elementary school children.

Half of the school cafeteria has been converted to a room for dance and weight lifting classes. The other half offers little space for the nearly 1,200 high school students to eat when it is raining or cold outside. The gymnasium is "the best too-small gym in the state," Stevenson said, but inadequate to meet federal provisions requiring equal facilities for men and women.

•

CARMEL SCHOOL district officials have made what improvements they can over the years. They carpeted a typing room, installed risers in the Little Theater and created a new science laboratory and career center.

What the district would like to do is refurbish the entire campus. That takes money and money is something the district doesn't have.

Twice in 1974, voters in Carmel Unified School District rejected proposals to expand the high school. In the spring, they defeated a bond measure to convert Carmel Middle School into a high school. Later in 1974, they rejected a property tax override measure to underwrite improvements at the existing campus. Both measures needed a two-thirds affirmative vote.

Former Superintendent Harris Taylor estimated in January 1976 the needed repairs and new construction would cost $2 million. The board of trustees acquired two portable classrooms, one of Taylor's recommendations, but it has made little progress on the other needs he mentioned.

Taylor said the school needed an auxiliary gymnasium, a new four-room science wing and "major rehabilitation" of the rest of the campus.

SUPERINTENDENT Carl Wilsey is looking at the issue again. He is concerned not only because the high school will require expensive maintenance work in the years ahead, but because he believes the present situation diminishes the quality of education students are receiving from the district.

"The quality of teaching at the high school is excellent," Wilsey said. "But if the residents of the district really want to provide a good educational program, they have to provide good facilities. We're really hurting at that site."

He said while most schools try to use 80 per cent of their classrooms at any given moment during the school day, classrooms at Carmel High School are almost all in use. "There's not much flexibility," Wilsey said.

The high school was built for a maximum of 1,025 students. The additional of two portable classrooms brought that up to 1,075. There are 1,181 students at the school, however.

•

STUDENT BODY president Carol Bialek said a certain number of them are put out of class at some point during the day. If classes are in session, she said, they have no place to go indoors.

"If they go to the library, they can't talk," she said. "If they talk, the people there say they can't study. We need some sort of student center."

At lunch, the situation is just as bad, especially during the winter. Other than classrooms, there are no dry, warm places to sit and eat.

"A lot of people go to town," Miss Bialek said. "Or they can eat in their cars. People eat under the overhangs (covered walkways between classrooms)."

It is not a problem for her. "I live close enough to go home for lunch," she said.

Miss Bialek said there were plans once to convert the cafeteria into a student lounge. That was vetoed because the district would have had to hire someone to supervise the students. Money being scarce, the idea died.

"If we get a cold, wet winter like last year, it will be a problem," Stevenson said.

Pamela Smith, a member of the school board, called the lack of a cafeteria "our biggest problem."

"The students don't really have a place to congregate for socializing," she added.

The facilities issue is "a problem we've been trying to grapple with since I've been on the school board."

In fact, Wilsey said in a memorandum to the board three weeks ago, "Carmel High School is like the weather. Everyone talks about it but..."

"It seems to me that people say it's not the facilities that are important to education, it's the teachers," Mrs. Smith said. "But you have to have certain minimal facilities.

"We have absolutely first-class science teachers. They could give so much more to the students if they had a good lab set-up."

•

BOARD CHAIRMAN Clayton Neill Jr. said the high school facilities problem is "by far the most critical in the district."

But he is concerned about how the district would pay for improvements.

The traditional method for raising construction money—passing a revenue bond issue—is not likely.

According to Paul DeLay, deputy county counsel for Monterey County, it now would be "difficult if not impossible to get a bond election passed."

Proposition 13 requires a two-thirds vote of the "qualified electors" in a district in order to raise property taxes. DeLay said there still is no final interpretation of qualified electors: are they registered voters or everyone eligible to vote?

As the 1974 elections showed, a two-thirds majority is difficult to obtain.

So Wilsey is looking at alternative ways to get money. He talks about possible cooperation with Monterey County or the city of Carmel to get a new library or theater for the campus.

The district also could realize some one-time revenue from the sale of unneeded land it owns in Carmel Valley.

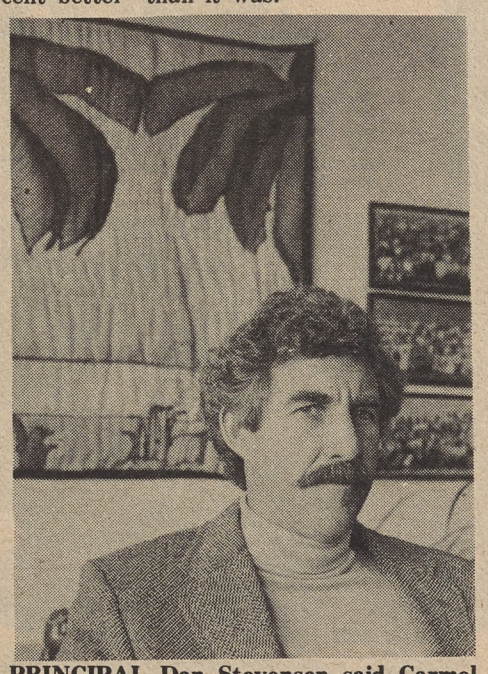
If the high school enrollment stays high, the district could add more portable classrooms — possibly bought from another district where enrollment is on the decline.

Carmel High also could resort to double sessions by extending the school day an hour at each end or using two or three lunch periods.

Wilsey called this a slim possibility because of the additional busing costs. Bringing students to school on two or three bus schedules would be a permanent expense; portable classrooms are a one-time cost.

For all the problems, Stevenson said, improvements to the campus over the last few years have made the place "100 per cent better" than it was.

CLEM SAVOLDI gets ready for lunch in the halls at Carmel High School. While outdoor dining is no problem on a sunny day, students have limited space in an indoor eating area and that causes problems during wet or cold weather.



PRINCIPAL Dan Stevenson said Carmel High facilities have improved "100 per cent" in recent years.

Destroyed in pre-dawn blaze

Reconstruction, reopening planned for Tantamount

"THE PHOENIX will rise again."

With those words of defiance and confidence, Francois Martin already is planning to reconstruct and reopen the Tantamount Theatre in Carmel Valley.

The rustic building on Middle Canyon Road was left a smoking ruin last Thursday, gutted by a pre-dawn fire.

The blaze also destroyed Martin's lifetime collection of puppets and paintings and the backdrop painted with 17th-century clowns from Moliere plays.

Carmel Valley Fire Chief Bill Sims put the damage to the building at $140,000 and anywhere from $150,000 to $200,000 for the contents.

Martin is resolute, according to theater assistant manager Marque Bradford: The Tantamount will come back better than ever.

•

"THE EVENING after the fire, we were all sitting around staring at the walls," Bradford said. "Francois got up, heaved a great sigh and said, 'Well, my dears, the milk is spilled. Let's get busy sopping it up.' "

Martin has set up a Tantamount Rebuilding Fund with the Bank of America in Carmel Valley. Attorneys are working on a non-profit corporation to funnel the money into a new theater.

Donations can be sent to the Tantamount Rebuilding Fund, Bank of America, P.O. Box 146, Carmel Valley 93924.

Bradford said the rebuilt Tantamount will aim for the goals the original one never quite reached. Martin said he hopes it will serve as a community center and a place for concerts, plays and lectures, in addition to films and puppet shows.

"We want our Valley to have this," Bradford said.

Martin is arranging benefit performances to help pay for reconstruction of the theater. The Wylie Band has agreed to play at a dance concert, time and place to be announced later.

Bradford said in addition to money, the Tantamount needs help with materials and labor in the rebuilding project.

Cost estimates for reconstruction range from $250,000 to $500,000, Bradford said. Insurance coverage will probably amount to about $100,000.

•

THE FIRE came at a particularly bad time, he said, because Martin had just resumed puppet performances for the first time since the death of his partner, Ralph Geddis.

But, Bradford added, Martin is throwing his full energy into the new Tantamount.

"The man again leaves us all rather flabbergasted," he said. "He is an absolute paragon of strength."

The blaze apparently started when a piece of ceiling insulation pressed against a new light bulb and began to smolder, cording to Sims. Bradford and Martin's other assistants installed the bulbs the night before the fire.

By the time the Carmel Valley Fire Department got a call at 4:32 a.m., much of the auditorium was in flames.

"I can't say enough for the guys," Sims said. Twenty-nine firefighters and four trucks responded to the call and controlled the blaze in the single building.

Ironically, he said, the fire district was formed at a meeting in the Tantamount building 30 years ago.

It took firefighters until 8 a.m. to extinguish the last hot spots and return to the station.

Youth Center to present 'Jason & Argonauts'

The Carmel Valley Youth Center will present Jason and the Argonauts on Friday night as part of its fall Approximately 7:15 Movie Series.

Showing with the adventure film will be Solo, an award-winning film about rock climbing, and a cartoon.

Admission for the films is $1.50 for those 18 and over; $1 for those under 18.

The newly organized youth board for the center will meet next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The board consists of any youth members interested in planning activities and events for the center.

Films and the meeting will be in the center, Ford and Carmel Valley roads. More information is available by calling John Harrison at 659-9954.

Monterey girl hurt in Valley accident

A 14-year-old Monterey girl, driving without a license, was injured along with two other people in a series of collisions along Carmel Valley Road on Saturday.

The accidents occurred east of Robinson Canyon Road at about 8:20 p.m., according to the California Highway Patrol.

The girl was driving down Eddy Road, a private street north of Carmel Valley Road. She entered the main road and collided with an eastbound car driven by Harold Bartle Phelps III, 27, of Monterey. He suffered moderate injuries when his car went off the south slope of the road. Phelps was treated and later released at Community Hospital.

The girl's car then collided with the eastbound car of Ursula Gerda Koglin, 43, of 27175 Los Arboles, Carmel Valley and came to rest, the CHP said. Mrs. Koglin was unhurt and her passenger, Frieda Schoeneber, 68, of the same address, suffered minor injuries for which she refused treatment.

The 14-year-old girl was treated and released from Community Hospital for minor injuries. She was not cited at the scene.

Schools delay appointment of principal

Carmelo and Tularcitos Schools will have to wait a little longer to get a new principal. The Carmel school district board Tuesday delayed appointing a successor to Phil Smith. The reason given was that background checks on the job candidates were not complete.

The school trustees will make a selection either at their next regular meeting on Tuesday or at a special meeting before that date, according to Trustee Pamela Smith.

Smith, the outgoing principal, resigned at the beginning of the school year for "personal reasons." He will remain on the job until a successor is named.

Four-year-old boy falls from father's pickup

A 4-year-old Carmel Valley boy was injured Saturday when he fell out of a pickup truck his father was driving on Schulte Road.

Thomas P. Carter of 258 Esquiline Road, was treated and released for minor injuries at Community Hospital.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Thomas E. Carter, 26, of the same address, was driving north on Schulte Road around 11 a.m. when the door opened and young Carter fell out of the truck going around a curve.

The Mid-Valley Fire Department ambulance took the boy to the hospital for treatment.

WE WERE in Rosie's Cracker Barrel the other day throwing a little bit of bull around with Rosie when he absolutely threw us with: "Would you like to see a picture of me on a horse?"

"Aw, come on, Rosie. You on a horse?" we replied incredulously.

Triumphantly, he reached under the counter and whipped out Vol. 2 No. 2 of the Tri-County Horseman-Monterey-Santa Cruz-San Benito September-October 1947. Sure enough, there's W. I. "Rosie" Henry of Robles del Rio on "Dolly" parked in front of the Cracker Barrel and wearing a big hat, too.

Well, we had to have a closer look at that magazine. It was full of things that were hard to believe. The 58-page magazine was chock-full of display ads, news articles about local people and pictures of good-looking horses.

There was a half-page ad for "Rancho del Monte Subdivisions: For those desiring an ideal location in the Carmel Valley, we now have a varied choice of acreage, small ranches, and other building sites suitable for maintaining saddle horses. 500 ACRES OF ESTABLISHED HORSE TRAILS." Paul F. Porter/Peggy Porter Marquard.

Meanwhile, Carmel Valley Inn advertised itself as "Something New Under the Sun. Here in sunny Carmel Valley is an ideal place to spend a vacation all year 'round. Swimming pool with beautiful surroundings, horseback riding over 25 miles of bridle trails."

Not to be outdone, White Oak Inn, 12 miles up the Carmel Valley, advertised "Beautiful Accomodations—Horseback Riding—Hiking—Swimming—Horse and Rider Shop, Riding Apparel for Cowboys and Cowgirls, Fancy Shirts, Boots, Riding Jackets."

OTHER ADS remind us that Bettie Greene Stables was at Junipero and Fourth in Carmel. Russel Sprague was the concessionaire for boats at Pacific Grove Beach. Betty Jean Newell and Enos Fouratt were the realtors to see for homes and ranches for you and your horse and Dr. William Hammond, pictured elsewhere in the magazine with his thoroughbred horses, was the veterinarian "for those who care."

In the news: Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Lambert of 1-Diamond-L Ranch at Jamesburg are the proud parents of a "future roper" named Rodney Daryl. Helping to welcome the new baby home were Paul "Red" Ryder, Mrs. Rose Tucker, Martin Flavin, Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander and daughter Joy, Flavia Flavin, Vern Allred, Bill and Ann Lambert and the editor and publishers of Tri-County Horseman, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Davis.

Frankie De Amaral, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Amaral of the Carmel Valley Stables, was recuperating from painful injuries he received when a jeep turned over on him while rounding up cattle near the stables.

That one caught our eye because the old barn at Carmel Valley Stables just burned last week. It was the Tantamount Theatre.

MOONLIGHT RIDING in Del Monte Forest on July 6 was enjoyed by Captain and Mrs. Al Elasho, Gloria Antonuccio and Fred Hawes. Barbara Jean Davis, who noted this news on the "Horsewomen's Page," added, "We were certainly glad to see Captain Elasho of the Monterey Police Department riding and really enjoying it."

K.D. Mathiot, owner of Rancho Carmelo up the Carmel Valley, had an educated horse whose name was "Ráslani," an Arabian yearling filly which could give instructions to Emily Post and still have room at the hitching post. "Raslani" had perfect table manners and Mathiot had trained this filly to eat with the family at the dinner table surprisingly enough she ate toast, sugar, asparagus, biscuits and in fact, the usual food served on the average table. Chief Red Eagle of Carmel was further training her to sit at the table.

Those of us who remember Rancho Carmelo Dude Ranch just past Carmel Valley Village still miss K. D. Mathiot, greatest bull thrower of us all. The site is now a bare field with two palm trees. It is along Carmel Valley Road just above Camp Stefani.

There were plenty of horse shows and activities in 1947. Dick Collins won a fourth in the Pebble Beach Hunter Trials on a horse named "Double Scotch" owned by Mrs. Jean Geer of Pacific Grove. Jean Wilder of Pebble Beach took a second riding her own horse "Nob Hill."

In the Equitation Under 10 class, Ricky Morse of Pebble Beach took second and S.F.B. Morse III took fourth.

THE FOURTH of July Horse Show at the Watsonville Fairgrounds was judged by Ray Arano of Robles del Rio. It featured classes like Advanced Jaquima Horses, Five Gaited Saddle Horses and a Parade Class.

The Santa Cruz County Horsemen's Association held its show in Santa Cruz. Pete Lert of Cupertino won both Hunters Class and Trail Horse Class.

The second annual Pebble Beach Horse Show was held July 27. Ribbons were won by Carol Ann Eichelberger, Barbara Bachelder, Bernice Fouratt, Elizabeth Ford, Enos Fouratt and Mrs. John Setchel.

Anyone looking for good pastures see Larry Erickson, Carmel Valley.

Finally, there was a column on "The Good Old Days" by a writer who signed himself simply as "The Wrangler." He was mainly worried that rodeo was becoming too professional. He yearned for the good old days when a fella rode a bronc for the fun of it; or busted a steer or roped a calf just to show the critter that he was smarter than it was. "'Course it didn't always turn out that way," remembered the Wrangler.

The Wrangler went on to say, "Then I discovered something about the good ol' days—they've never left. You just got to go where they are."

The Wrangler wrote that in 1947. Some of us out here in Carmel Valley like to think it is still true. At least ways you can still throw a little bull around Rosie's Cracker Barrel. That hasn't changed.

LENDING THEIR hands, three parishioners from St. Philip's Lutheran Church of Carmel arrange a sales table for Saturday's bazaar to benefit the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula. Pictured are Barbara Battcher of Pacific Grove and Martha Banker and Jeanne Hiaasen, both from Carmel. The sale is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the church. It is situated on Carmel Valley Road, four miles east of Highway 1. The hospice is an experimental home for the terminally ill and it is in Carmel Valley. Featured at the bazaar will be Christmas decor, handicrafts, plants, baked goods and gift items.

'Thank yous' from Boronda, Buckeye 4-H

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Boronda and Buckeye 4-H Clubs of Carmel Valley, I want to thank the Carmel Valley Outlook for publishing an article about National 4-H Week. I also want to thank the radio stations which said a word or two about it. In addition, I would like to extend our thanks to:

Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department for putting up the banner which the 4-Hers painted; the Carmel Valley Market and the General Store for letting us paint their windows; Monroe's Meats and the Village Meat Market for donating butcher paper for painting posters; the Safeway store at Mid-Valley for donating soft drinks for our refreshment sale, and to St. Dunstan's Church for letting 4-Hers come with their animals for the blessing of the animals. We would also like to thank the Carmel Unified School District for the use of the multipurpose room at Tularcitos School for our exhibition day.

We appreciate the help of all these people in celebrating National 4-H Week.

Carmel High victorious in football, tennis, waterpolo, swimming

AFTER ROLLING over North County High School last week 20-0, the Carmel Padres travel to Pebble Beach on Saturday to take on the Robert Louis Stevenson Pirates in a key MTAL game. The frosh-soph game begins at noon. The varsity game follows at 2 p.m.

Against North County, the Carmel offense was sluggish, but the Padre defense turned in a shutout. Coach Frank Lynch said he was pleased with the play of defensive tackles Jim Colletto and John Heebner. Linebacker Tim Sherman also looked good as he recorded several quarterback sacks.

"We played sloppy and made a lot of mistakes Saturday," said coach Lynch, "but you can't expect to play perfect every week."

Lynch said after the game that Carmel will have to stop a tough RLS offense, which is led by quarterback Ezra Burdix. When Burdix decides to pass, he will be throwing most of the time to wide receivers Chris Ware and Dave Drummond. When the Pirates run, halfback Charlie Boyce will do most of the work. The Pirate defense is led by Roosevelt Travis, who made all-league last year. Last week, the Pirates upset MTAL favorite King City, 28-20.

Lynch said, "We're expecting a tough game Saturday. We have a lot of respect for them and we're going to have to play better than we did today."

The Carmel frosh-soph team upped its record to 2-1 with a 14-0 win over North County. Randy Evans and Matt Nottenkamper each scored one touchdown and Evans added a two-point conversion run.

•

THE PADRE GIRLS' tennis team evened its overall record at 3-3 by defeating Pacific Grove, 6-1, on Oct. 3. Carmel hosts Hollister today at 3:30 p.m. in its quest for a third MTAL victory in four matches. Next Tuesday, the Padres will play at Gonzales.

Against P.G., the doubles team of Laura Tanous and Laurie McGlochlin won its sixth straight match without a loss, 6-0, 6-2.

•

IN WATER POLO action, Carmel remained undefeated by beating Hollister, 21-8, and Harbor, 13-7. Against Hollister, Art Strum led the Padres with eight goals. Other leading scorers were Adam Sherbourne with five goals and Mark Baldwin with four.

Against Harbor last Thursday, Strum and Sherburne led Carmel with five goals each. Other Padres scoring were Jeff Hogans with two goals and Carl Bresk with one. The Padres next game is Tuesday against RLS at the Carmel pool.

THE CARMEL girls' swim team stretched their consecutive win streak to 57 meets by destroying Watsonville, 108-20, last week in Watsonville. Gail Frost won two races plus a relay and Mary McCreery also won two races.

The Padres also won the frosh-soph meet, 103-50, as Kerry Neill set two school records and the medley relay team of Susie Hermanson, Cindy Frost, Kira Garrett and Neill set another.

Flea market planned Oct. 28 at Tularcitos

Rent a flea market stall and at the same time help the Tularcitos Parents Club is the suggestion of Jim Luttrell, chairman of the Tularcitos benefit scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 28 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Flea market spaces are available at $20 for those who wish to set up shop on the Tularcitos grounds. The club is hosting a rummage sale in conjunction with the flea market.

For further information or reservations, call Jim Luttrell, 659-4600.

Strenuous hike planned to top of Mt. Manuel

A hike to the top of Mt. Manuel in Big Sur is planned Saturday, Oct. 14, by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club. Members of other chapters and other interested persons are welcome to join the outing.

The strenuous trip, for experienced hikers in good condition, will involve a four-mile trip with an elevation gain of 3,000 feet to the top of Mt. Manuel for lunch. They will be rewarded with spectacular views of the Santa Lucia range and the coast.

Meet in the parking lot south of Brinton's in Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, at 8 a.m. for the 26-mile drive to the trail head. Bring lunch and a full canteen.

String quartet to play at first chamber concert

The International String Quartet will present the opening concert of the 1978-79 Chamber Music Society season Saturday, Oct. 14, at Sunset Center, San Carlos and Ninth, Carmel. The concert begins at 8 p.m.

The quartet will play Quartet in D Major by Mozart, the Quartet Number 2, Opus 10 by Kodaly and Quartet in F Major by Ravel.

Members of the quartet are Machie Oguri-Kudo and Chihiro Kudo on violin, James Van Valkenburg on viola and Lutz Rath on cello. All four artists are former students at the Indiana University School of Music and currently serve as Quartet-in-Residence and members of the music faculty of the university.

The quartet was formed in 1974 and in 1976 won the Premier Grand Prix at the International Chamber Music Competition at Evian, France. In 1977 they won prizes at the East and West Competition in New York and at the Munich Competition.

The Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula presents five concerts and a contest for chamber music ensembles each year. Other groups scheduled to play this year are the Rogeri Trio Nov. 15, the Cleveland String Quartet Jan. 6, Music from Marlboro March 3 and Early Music Consort April 6. A few memberships in the society are still available for the 1978-79 season.

Balcony seats will be available at the box office on the evening of the concert. General admission is $4.50; students and enlisted military personnel will be admitted for $2.50.

THE INTERNATIONAL String Quartet will present the opening concert of the Chamber Music Society's 1978-79 season Saturday, Oct. 14, at Sunset Center, San Carlos and Ninth, Carmel. The quartet will play works by Mozart, Kodaly and Ravel.

THE GREAT SAND CASTLE Contest of Carmel Sunday, Oct. 15, at Carmel Beach always brings out large crowds to create ephemeral castles that will be washed away in the next high tide. Construction will begin at about the time of low tide, 10:23 a.m., and judging will begin at 2 p.m.

'West Side Story' slated for MPC

West Side Story, the first production presented by the Monterey Peninsula College Players when the MPC Theatre opened eight years ago, will be revived for a new production which opens Thursday, Oct. 12.

Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. in the theater, 980 Fremont St., Monterey, Thursday-Saturday, Oct. 12-14, and Wednesday-Saturday, Oct. 18-21 and Oct. 25-28. A matinee will be presented at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22.

Morgan Stock, head of the college drama department, will direct the musical, a modern adaptation of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet set in New York City's Spanish Harlem.

Ken Crockett and Barbara Brussel play Tony and Maria, the two young people affiliated with rival street gangs.

The musical, with a score by Leonard Bernstein and Steven Sondheim, includes such memorable songs as Tonight, Maria, The Jet Song, In America and Gee, Officer Krupke.

Greg Janusz of the MPC music faculty will direct the 25-piece orchestra and the 21-voice chorus. Akemi Ito is choreographer.

General admission is $4.

Hit musical revue plays at Barnyard

Here's Entertainment!, a musical revue with scenes from eight hit musicals, is on stage Thursday-Sunday evenings at the Theatre in the Barnyard, Highway 1 and Rio Road, Carmel. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. Thursday-Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

A troupe of nine Peninsula performers present musical numbers from Grease, The Unsinkable Molly Brown, Chorus Line, Annie, Music Man, Li'l Abner, Annie Get Your Gun and Brigadoon. Cast members include Bruce Tuthill, David Durrett, Tina Paradiso, June Barrett and others. Lee Garland is the musical director and Gloria Elber is the director and choreographer.

'Side by Side' opens Friday at Wharf

Side by Side by Sondheim, a revue of songs from several musicals, opens Friday, Oct. 13, at the Wharf Theatre on Fisherman's Wharf, Monterey.

Curtain will be at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday evenings and 8 p.m. Sundays.

The show includes music from many Stephen Sondheim musicals, including A Little Night Music, West Side Story, Follies, Company, Gypsy, Pacific Overtures and Anyone Can Whistle.

Members of the cast are Katharine Collins, Danny Gochnauer and Barbara Morgan, with Janice O'Brien as narrator. Bill Asp is the director and music is by Barney Hulse.

Castle building tips offered

Old hands at sand castling offer helpful hints to novice beach builders entering the 17th annual Great Sand Castle Contest of Carmel Sunday, Oct. 15, on Carmel beach.

- Only wet sand will keep its shape without crumbling. To make it easy and not have to lug buckets of water to your building site, choose a spot on the beach where the high tide has recently receded. The morning tide will reach its high water mark at 10:23 a.m. and continue ebbing until 4:52 p.m.
- Pack your mound of wet sand into the general conformation you have in mind, then shape and refine it from the top down, so sand scraped away won't fall on an area you've already worked on.
- The kitchen or a hardware or variety store will yield a wealth of sand-sculpting tools for shaping or scooping. Pile some of these in a bucket for easy handling: gelatin molds, plastic cups, funnels, empty coffee cans, trowels, measuring scoop, refillable spray bottle—the only limit is your imagination. Be sure to confine your implements to metal or plastic. Glass—if it gets broken—is bad news on the beach.

Carmel's sand castle contest was the first in California, although there are now a dozen such competitions every year. France and Japan were pioneers in this well-liked activity.

One final hint: bring a picnic. That salt air and all that creative effort will tend to build a hearty appetite. And pack all the litter away in your picnic hamper.

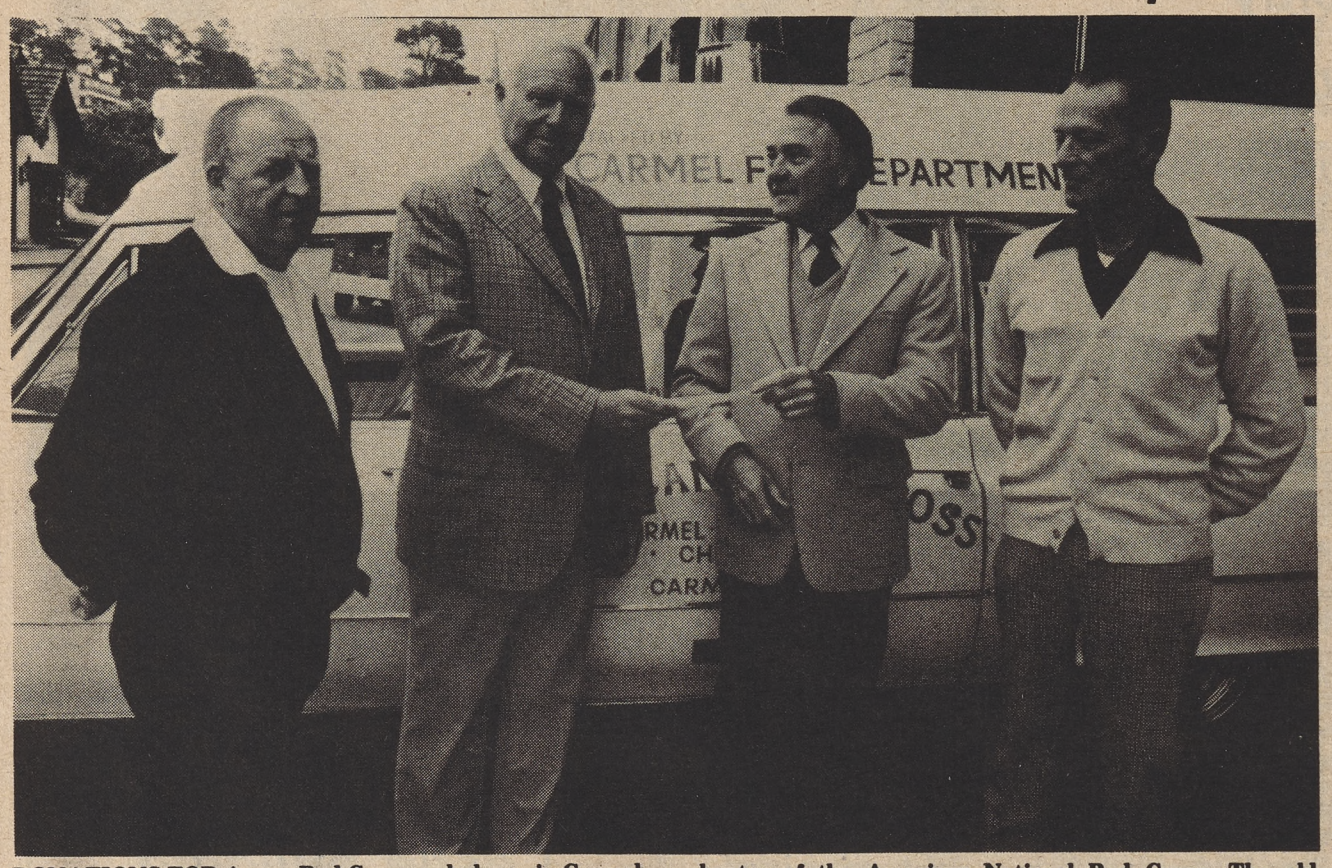
Ambulance fund over the top



DONATIONS FOR A new Red Cross ambulance in Carmel have exceeded the $10,000 goal set in August when the fund drive started. A $320 check from the Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club, given last week by club president Charles Strathmeyer (second from right), helped move the total to $11,000. Douglas Despard (checked jacket), chairman of the Red Cross ambulance service, received the donation. With him were Carmel Fire Chief Robert Updike (left) and Paul Root (right), treasurer of the Carmel-by-the-Sea chapter of the American National Red Cross. The old ambulance will be replaced with a van-type vehicle that costs $25,000. Despard said the Red Cross has decided to continue the drive despite reaching the goal. The chapter had set aside $10,000 for the ambulance, but had planned on withdrawing an additional $5,000 in savings to pay for it. "If we can raise $15,000," he said, "then we won't have to draw out of our savings."

Family health lecture Friday at MPC

A lecture entitled Family Dynamics and Personal Health will be presented Friday, Oct. 13, by C. Daniel Witmer at the Knowledge Update lecture at Monterey Peninsula College room E-3, 980 Fremont St. Monterey. Everyone is welcome to attend the free program, which begins at 1:30 p.m.

Witmer, a licensed marriage, family and child counselor, will discuss family communication and its relationship to the health of the individual.

Witmer is a former chaplain at Fort Ord and has been a consultant to various governmental agencies, probation departments and school districts. He currently is coordinator of MPC's program at Fort Ord.

Park guide available

A new Guide to the California State Park System, which locates and briefly describes state parks, beaches, reserves and recreation areas and provides information on various kinds of state park activities, was recently published by the state Parks and Recreation Department.

It includes a large map showing 222 state park units, information on how to make campsite reservations, capsule descriptions of park units and lists that indicate which parks offer hiking and bicycling, group picnic facilities and campground and boating facilities.

The guide sells for 50 cents at state park units or may be obtained by mail for $1 from the Department of Parks and Recreation Distribution Center, P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento, Calif. 95811.

Mid-Valley and Carmel fire districts receive additional $19,000 in tax relief

The Mid-Valley and Carmel Valley fire districts received an additional $19,000 in state tax relief Tuesday.

The allocations were approved by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

The Mid-Valley district got $9,967, bringing its total income for an the year to $159,082. Carmel Valley received $9,326 for an income of $168,342.

The extra funds came from a $37 million state pool set aside for special districts statewide. The money was allocated after districts had already received local property tax dollars and some state aid.

The two Carmel Valley districts were among eight fire districts in the county receiving additional money.

Residents learn more about 'Robles Revolt'

ABOUT 50 residents of Robles del Rio turned out last Wednesday to learn more about the "Robles Revolt." They came away from the meeting promising support in the campaign to block new subdivisions in the area.

Colin Fletcher, a spokesman for the Revolt, said large turnouts at development hearings "have a powerful effect on supervisors and commissioners. It's the prime thing we're after tonight."

Fletcher said he hopes to turn the Vista Robles subdivision hearing on Oct. 25 into a "test case" for future development in Robles del Rio.

He wants to show the Monterey County Planning Commission that the problems of the entire area should be addressed before any new lot splits are approved.

The problems include a single access road for 400 homes and 900 people (county standards now require two roads for each 200 homes); inadequate water mains; difficulties with fire protection; and an "overload" on the entire road system serving the area.

"What we're talking about is basic safety and not just esthetics," said attorney David Barish, another spokesman at several planning commission hearings.

•

CARMEL VALLEY Fire Chief Bill Sims said California-American Water Co. is putting in 12 new hydrants in Robles, which will help that situation somewhat.

But access is still difficult, he added.

"Robles' problem is not going to solve itself," Sims said.

Carol Hildebrand said the people of the area "can ask for a moratorium" on construction if the problems get too severe. She called that "a drastic step. It's not the intent of this meeting."

"We're not opposing genuine single family residences on lots of record," Fletcher said. "Just genuine subdivisions."

One man, saying the "last thing I ever want to do" is tell a neighbor what he can do with his land, said he would show up at future hearings to oppose new Robles subdivisions. A show of hands indicated more than half of the audience would join him.

The Robles Revolt group will meet again next Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. at Hidden Valley Music Seminars to plan strategy for the Oct. 25 Vista Robles hearing and another meeting Oct. 26 on the Steele-Cooper subdivision.

Vista Robles would create seven parcels and Steele-Cooper four lots on the south end of Calle de los Agrinemsors at the far end of Robles.

Cool reception on Odello sewers

Annexation of the 132-acre Odello East property to the Carmel Sanitary District got a cool reception Tuesday. But the district board agreed to review its current annexation ban to see if the policy should be discarded.

Carl Hooper of Bestor Engineers, Inc. asked that the agricultural parcel be annexed to the district. He cited an agreement between the Odello brothers and the district guaranteeing annexation of the land in exchange for district right of way for its outfall line over the Odello West land.

Hooper said the agreement predates the annexation ban and must be honored. Sanitary district attorney Donald Freeman disagreed, saying the annexation ban takes precedence.

The district trustees ordered staff members to review the reasons for the ban to determine if they are still valid. Freeman said he would bring in a new ordinance repealing the ban if the staff finds justification for the move.

Trustee Ken McGinnis said he sees no reason "why we would turn down Marriott and accept Odello at this time." The board rejected annexation of the 25 acres proposed for the 376-room Rancho Canada Marriott Lodge in May. The Odello family envisions a 200-room hotel, 97 condominiums and a farmers' market complex of restaurants and shops on their land.

McGinnis said the restraints that forced the ban are unchanged: the treatment plant is near its 2.4 million gallon per day capacity and the excess is in reserve for property owners already in the district.

Trustee Ted Weller said the additional study is needed because of Monterey County planning decisions which may allow "package (sewer) plants up the Valley."

If the district annexes new territory, even if it does not agree to provide service to it, Weller said it would gain a measure of control over the design of the package plants.

"We don't want a hodge-podge of this stuff up there," he said.

The district could wind up assuming control of the package plants as the lead sewage treatment agency for the Carmel area, Weller pointed out.

"How can we control anything outside our district?" he asked.

The board will get a report back on the issue at its Nov. 14 meeting.

Suicide line gets $500 Crosby grant

The Carmel-based Suicide Prevention Center of Monterey County has been given a $500 grant by the Bing Crosby Youth Fund to purchase printed material for its community education program.

The center provides a 24-hour crisis intervention and a suicide prevention line. It also sends speakers to schools, service clubs and social groups.

River Inn must file impact report

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors agreed with its planning commission last week and ordered an environmental impact report on the expansion proposal for the Carmel River Inn.

The EIR also was endorsed by attorney Myron Etienne Jr., who owns the motel property.

Etienne wants to build a 45-unit motel addition on an eight-acre parcel adjacent to the Carmel River. There are 21 rental cabins on the property now and an existing 19-unit motel on an adjacent parcel in the same motel complex.

Marriott hearing delayed until Blohm recovers

The Rancho Canada Marriott Lodge proposal will get a hearing before the Monterey County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday, Oct. 24. The hearing was scheduled last Tuesday, but the board postponed it because of the illness of Supervisor Kenneth Blohm.

Attorney Gerald Dalton, representing developer Winthrop Carmel Inc., asked for the delay until the full board could hear the matter.

Blohm is expected back next Tuesday. He underwent surgery two weeks ago.

The board hearing is at 2:30 p.m. It will deal with the legal issue of whether the proposed 376-room hotel is consistent with area master plans.

The Monterey County Planning Commission ruled Aug. 30 that the hotel is inconsistent with the Carmel Valley Master Plan, the Lower Carmel Valley amendment to that plan, the Monterey Peninsula Area Plan and the conservation and open space element of the county general plan.

Dalton submitted a lengthy appeal in an attempt to refute all of the commission's contentions.

The hotel project would go back to the planning commission again if the supervisors sustain the appeal. It would then be evaluated on its merits, including solutions it offers to problems of increased traffic and sewage disposal.

The hearing will be in the supervisors' chambers at Church and Alisal streets in Salinas. It will follow a 2 p.m. hearing of an appeal by California-American Water Co. Cal-Am is asking the board to overturn a planning commission order that the utility prepare an environmental impact report for four Lower Carmel Valley wells it wants to drill.

When Uncle Sam Gives You a Break on Taxes,

Take It!

It's possible that last year you could have had substantial tax savings for retirement.
But now it's too late.
That's too bad.
You can do something about it this year . . . before it's too late, and NCS can help with KEOGH or IRA.
If you are self-employed, then KEOGH is the plan for you and your eligible employees.
If you work for someone else, and they have no retirement program, IRA (the Individual Retirement Account) is your answer.
Either way, it means a tax savings for you, and that makes planning your retirement a pushover.
And when it comes to saving . . . for anything, NCS can help.
We're pushovers, too.

Committee to review master plan

the steepness of slope on the property and a host of other factors.

Seeman told the committee he will try to come up with a point system that balances all the concerns expressed in background reports adopted by the panel.

"This is going to be fraught with problems to implement," Seeman said. "It's a real problem just to write it down and make it logical."

•

WHEN THE plan is written he said, it will be "the test case" for the new county growth management policy adopted by the board of supervisors last month.

That policy—written in part by master plan committee chairman William Peters—endorses a point system and clustering of units to protect viewshed and open space. Both elements are proposed for the Carmel Valley Master Plan.

The committee also heard an appeal from Stew Clough for more heavy commercial zoning in the Valley.

Clough, a plumbing contractor, said there are virtually no suitable sites for businesses like his to operate.

"The Valley is big enough to bring in people like me," he said. "We've trained for our trades and the Valley is big enough to support us."

Committee member Nancy Burnett said the panel must "face up to the issue of C-2 zoning" since its policies favor having service businesses like Clough's in the Valley.

"We didn't realize how much of a problem it was (finding space)," she said.

CLOUGH said perhaps nine or 10 other contracting or shop businesses like his would locate in a heavy commercial zone if one existed.

He specifically asked if a parcel just purchased by Dale Vandervort could be converted to this type of commercial use. The land is located on the south side of Carmel Valley Road, across from the Carmel Valley Inn and east of Los Laureles Grade.

Burnett said it would be impossible to get the committee to create a new commercial area in the Valley. This use could be located either in the Village, Mid-Valley or the mouth of the Valley, she added.

Free flu shots Thursday in Valley

Free flu shots will be given at two Carmel area locations Thursday, Oct. 26.

The innoculations are part of a countywide anti-flu program being conducted by the Monterey County Health Department.

Shots will be given at Del Mesa Carmel, Del Mesa Drive and Carmel Valley Road, from 9 to 11 a.m. Later, they will be given at the Carmel Foundation, Eighth and Lincoln, from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

The vaccines are designed to prevent three strains of influenza—A-Russian, A-Texas and B-Hong Kong. The innoculations will contain no preventative for swine flu, said Dr. Robert J. Bowersox, the county health director.

He urged persons over 55 to get the shot.
